HISTORY OF THE ALABAMA DEPARTMENT OF INSURANCE

The regulation of the business of insurance had its emergence early in the nineteenth century, with most of the initial statutes relating strictly to the generation of state revenue. The first was in New York, where an 1824 statute levied a 10% premium tax on insurance written in that state by insurers from other states. Similar laws followed in other states, with some taxing premiums and others taxing the corporate stock of insurers. The natural progression was to first pass a tax, then require insurers to file financial statements to be used to verify the tax liability, and finally require insurers to obtain a license from the state before doing business. 1 The state of New Hampshire was first to create a separate agency to regulate insurers in 1851. By 1871, all states had some form of insurance regulation in place and a national organization was created, which today is known as the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

Alabama became the twenty-second state in the union on December 14, 1819. 2 Following the national trend, the first Alabama statute that in any way related to insurance was a general revenue act adopted in 1844 which imposed, among other taxes, a ½ of 1% tax on insurance premiums written in the state by any insurance company. 3 Although not specified in the law, it appears the tax was collected at the county level by the county tax collectors. In 1860, the Legislature passed a law requiring insurers from other states to obtain a certificate of authority from the State Comptroller before doing business in this state, along with certain other requirements, including a premium tax of 2% to be collected by the counties, one-half of which would be retained by the county and the other half going to the state. 4

Here is a list of the first insurance companies organized in the State of Alabama, along with the original charter date according to the act of the Legislature:

- Mobile Marine Railway and Insurance company, January 13, 1827.
- Merchants' Insurance Co., December 28, 1832.
- Tuscumbia Rail Road Insurance Co., January 17, 1834.
- Alabama Life Insurance & Trust Co., of Mobile, January 9, 1836.

By 1868, the Legislature had incorporated between 75 and 80 insurance companies. 5

The first two constitutions of the State of Alabama provided for four state-wide constitutional officers: Governor, Secretary of State, Treasurer, and Comptroller of Public Accounts. 6 The Alabama Constitution of 1865 added Attorney General to this list. 7 The Alabama Constitution of 1868 provided for six state-wide constitutional officers: Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, and Attorney General. 8 Also in 1868 the Legislature clarified that the term “Auditor” as used in the constitution and “Comptroller” as used in existing laws were considered synonymous and were used to designate one and the same state officer. 9

In 1868, the Alabama Legislature also passed the first act aimed at insurance consumer protection. The law required all insurers to deposit in the state treasury “a sufficient amount, not less than $10,000, of the bonds of this state to secure the holders of policies issued by such companies to persons owning property in this state.” The act called upon the sheriff to semi-annually publish the names of all insurance companies making the deposit and the amount on deposit and permitted the sheriff to require the insurer to increase the amount of the deposit based on the policies issued. 10

In 1870, the first retaliatory act was passed to regulate the agents of life insurers from other states doing business in this state. The law basically called for insurers from other states to have the same deposit requirements and subjected them to the same taxes, penalties, licenses, and fees in this state that insurers from this state were subject to in their home states. The filings were to be made with the “comptroller general” of this state.\textsuperscript{11}

In 1872 life insurers from other states were required to file a sworn statement of their financial condition with the State Auditor. The preamble of this bill states, “It is apparent from the report of the Auditor, that the Revenue Laws levying a tax of two per cent. on the gross amount of premiums received in this State by life insurance companies of other and foreign States doing business in this State have been evaded or disregarded, and that the State does not realize the amount due under and by said laws, and it is necessary to provide other and further means to that end.”\textsuperscript{12}

In 1875, “an act to regulate the business of fire, inland, and marine insurance companies of other states and countries doing business in Alabama,” was approved March 8, 1875.

In 1876, Willis Brewer was elected state auditor. In the Report of the State Auditor for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1877, under the part of the report entitled “Insurance,” Mr. Brewer included a section with the heading “Crudeness of the Laws,” which reads in part as follows:

The statutes which relate to insurance give to this department a species of supervision over the subject. They show a want of harmony, and are no doubt the outgrowth of the rivalry between the “home” and the “foreign” companies, or companies chartered by the State and those chartered by other states and nations. If these laws are designed to raise revenue only, they fail to require a bonus of the life and accident companies, while they exact it of fire and marine companies, and that too without any apparent reason for the discrimination; and they make the fees (which are now revenue to the State) dependent on the fact whether the State from which the company comes requires fees of companies entering that State, when they should be well defined. If, on the other hand, those laws are meant to protect policy holders, they fail to require “home” companies to report their condition, at any time, to any one, as “foreign” companies are required to do; and they only allow the auditor to stop the operation of a foreign company on the knowledge of the facts (the reduction of the assets of a company) which he has no means of ascertaining.\textsuperscript{13}

Mr. Brewer concludes this section of the report with recommendations for amendments to the insurance laws, basically calling for a more comprehensive set of laws applicable to all insurers.

In 1884 insurers from other states were required to receive a certificate of authority from the State Auditor and were also required to pay a 1% tax on premiums written in this state.\textsuperscript{14} In 1887 all insurers doing business in this state were required to have a minimum of $100,000 capital in cash\textsuperscript{15} and insurers from other states were required to pay a “uniform license tax” of $100 per year.\textsuperscript{16}

In the Auditor’s report for 1887, under the section of the report headed “Insurance Companies,” the Auditor began with the following statement:

The laws relating to insurance companies need revision. A general act, comprehensive in its character, should be passed regulating insurance companies, providing fully for the enforcement of the provisions of such act and requiring insurance companies to pay all the taxes due from them to the State. Under laws now in force, receipts of State taxes on gross premium, from insurance companies not chartered by this State, are scarcely sufficient to pay the cost of collecting the same. They amount generally to less than $2,000 per annum. The total receipts from such companies, including license fees paid into the State Treasury, amount in 1886 to $6,158.34. In neighboring States, receipts from this source are largely in excess of those in this state. In my judgment, receipts from insurance companies ought to be five-fold than they are, and the enactment of proper laws would promptly bring about this result. ... 17

In the Auditor’s report for 1896, in the section of the report headed “The Auditor’s Office” he states that “[t]he State Auditor is ex officio Commissioner of Insurance in this State.” 18 Further on in the same report, under the section headed “Insurance,” the Auditor began with the following statement:

The business of insurance, in this State, should have more attention given it than the Auditor, with his present force and volume of work, can possibly give it. As the work is now done, everything in connection with it, of an official character, is done in merely a perfunctory manner. In fact about all the attention given it is to see that the companies pay the legal tax required of them. 19

Finally, in 1897 the Legislature heeded the repeated call of the State Auditor and passed a comprehensive act to regulate the business of insurance in this state, making the Secretary of State Insurance Commissioner ex officio and the chief officer of the Department of Insurance. 20 Although this act does not specifically state that a “Department of Insurance” is created, this law is accepted as the creation of the Department of Insurance. It is also interesting to note that from at least 1873 until 1881 the section of the Auditor’s report regarding insurance was entitled “Insurance Department,” even though the reports for subsequent years merely referred to “Insurance” or “Insurance Companies.”

Prior to the 1897 act, the revenues and expenses associated with the regulation of insurance were reported by the State Auditor. The 1898 report indicated receipts by the Insurance Department of $40,000 and a disbursement for the Deputy Insurance Commissioner’s salary and expenses of $2,500. The 1897 act set a salary for the Deputy Commissioner not to exceed $1,200 and it was to be paid from fees collected from insurance companies. Based on this comment and similar comments in subsequent Insurance Reports, it appears the Department of Insurance was supposed to operate as a self-funded agency from the outset.

The first insurance report under the 1897 act found in the Legal Division Library is dated 1902 and contains reports for the year ending December 31, 1901. This report indicates receipts had increased from 1898 by $22,044 while expenses had only increased by $890. The report indicated the increased revenue was simply due “to a healthy increase in the volume of insurance business transacted in the state...” The report also indicated expenses of $231.50 were incurred in the investigation of four suspicious fires.

Increases in revenue starting in 1905 are due in large measure to an increase in the premium tax rate. The 1908 Insurance Report indicated that the work of the Department since moving to the Office of the Secretary of State was been done by the same number of employees, even though the workload had increased dramatically, and included a recommendation for the employment of another deputy commissioner and clerk, as well as the addition of an actuary and of a stenographer.

In 1909 the first comprehensive State Fire Marshal law was enacted, which called for the employment of an additional Deputy Commissioner to serve as State Fire Marshal. This deputy commissioner’s annual salary was set at $2,000.

In 1915, a completely “separate and distinct” department was created as the Department of Insurance, with its chief officer, to be known as the Commissioner of Insurance, appointed by the 17 Ala. Auditor’s Report, 1887, pp. x-xi.

In the 1915 act, the annual salary of the Commissioner was set at $3,000, that of the deputy commissioner was set at $2,000; and that of a clerical assistant was set at $1,000. These salaries were apparently in addition to that of the deputy commissioner who served as State Fire Marshal. In 1919, the State Fire Marshal Department was separated from the Department of Insurance.

By an act adopted in 1923, the Department of Insurance was superseded by the Bureau of Insurance, with its chief officer, entitled the “Superintendent of Insurance,” appointed by the Governor. The 1923 act changed the annual salaries of staff as follows: Superintendent: $4,000; Deputy Superintendent: $3,000; a chief clerk: $1,800; a Workmen’s Compensation clerk: $2,400; a license clerk and stenographer: $1,500; and a record and filing clerk: $1,200.

Of course, the Great Depression started in 1929, so expenses and revenues show a marked decline starting in 1930 but seemed to recover by 1934. In the 1934 Insurance Report, the commissioner reported that the following annual salaries had been reduced: Superintendent: reduced from $4,000 to $3,000; Deputy Superintendent reduced from $3,000 to $2,400; Chief Clerk, reduced from $1,800 to $1,500; License Clerk, reduced from $1,500 to $1,200; Record and file clerk, reduced from $1,200 to $1,140; and Workmen’s Compensation Clerk, reduced from $2,400 to $2,000. Additionally, the office of State Fire Marshal was added to the Bureau of Insurance.

In 1939, a Department of Commerce was created by the Legislature, consisting of the Bureau of Banking, the Bureau of Insurance, and the Bureau of Building and Loan. Also in 1939, the Workmen’s Compensation Division was transferred to the Department of Industrial Relations and the Bureau of Insurance began to also regulate credit unions. By 1944, a separate Division of Credit Unions was a part of the Department of Commerce.

In 1951, the department was again made a separate state agency called the Department of Insurance. The title of the chief officer was last changed in 1971 to Commissioner of Insurance.

In the 1951 statute, the offices of the commissioner were to “be located at the state capitol.” At some point thereafter, most of the department moved to the State Administration Building, located at 64 North Union Street, which was built in 1958 and is now known as the Folsom Building. In October of 1983, all divisions except Receivership moved to the first floor of the Retirement Systems of Alabama Building, located at 135 South Union Street, and expanded to part of the second floor in 1992. In 1997, all divisions except Receivership moved to the 17th Floor of the RSA Tower, located at 201 Monroe Street. In 2000, the department expanded to cover most of the 18th floor, and finally all divisions were located at one address. In 2003, the department expanded again to encompass a part of the 16th floor, and in 2010 left the 16th floor to assume all of the 5th Floor. In 2019, space was acquired on the 19th floor to house the department’s cyber security system.

In 2007, the department leased space on the 11th floor of the new RSA Battle House Tower Building in Mobile. It was believed this would offer space to house a back-up for our computer servers, while also providing office space and a meeting location. This space was never fully occupied and when the lease expired in 2017 it was not renewed.

In 2020, the department leased space in the Riverchase area of Shelby County, located at 100 Concourse Parkway, Suite 165, Hoover. This space is to provide a “home base” to financial examiners living in the Birmingham area and also provides meeting space for Deputy State Fire Marshals and Fraud Investigators.

Chief of Staff and Governmental Relations Manager

Over the years, the Commissioner of Insurance has typically relied upon the support of an assistant to help in the administration of the various duties of the office. This individual has operated under various different titles from administration to administration. Sometimes called Assistant Commissioner or Executive Assistant, Governmental Relations Manager, or Chief of Staff. Today this function is provided by a Deputy Commissioner.

Here is a partial list of the Executive Assistants, Assistant Commissioners and Chiefs of Staff as derived from available records:

1960-1962  --------- Ernest C. (Sonny) Hornsby (Executive Assistant)
1963-1966  --------- Arthur K. Gorman (Executive Assistant)
1967-1970  --------- Joseph Lloyd Fine, Jr. (Executive Assistant)
1970  -------------- Grady Loftin (Chief Administrative Officer)

Superintendent or Deputy Commissioner has served in various capacities, from serving as division directors, to Chief Examiner, to Commissioner of Insurance. Currently, one Deputy Commissioner supervises the managers of the Rates & Forms Division, the Consumer Services Division, and the Producer Licensing Division; and another Deputy Commissioner provides normal governmental relations functions, such as acting as Legislative Liaison for the Department and as a point-of-contact with other government agencies, supervises the Department’s Public Information Officer and the receptionist, manages special assignments for the Commissioner, and as Chief of Staff serves as an administrative liaison between the Commissioner and each division.

National Association of Insurance Commissioners

The National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) is the U.S. standard-setting and regulatory support organization created and governed by the chief insurance regulators from the 50 states, the District of Columbia and five U.S. territories. The NAIC has established a formal certification program to accredit each state insurance regulator, requiring risk-focused financial surveillance to include on-site examinations, and requires solvency-related model laws, rules and guidelines that have been adopted through consensus and collaboration. Accredited insurance departments are required to undergo a comprehensive review by an independent review team every five years to ensure the departments continue to meet baseline financial solvency oversight standards. The Alabama Department has been continuously accredited by the NAIC since 1995.

In 1871, at the second meeting of what is now called the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, the Alabama State Auditor, Robert McConnell Reynolds, became the first person to represent Alabama at a national meeting of chief state insurance regulators.

At its 76th national meeting in St. Paul, Minnesota, on June 2, 1945, Miss Addie Lee Farish answered the rollcall for Alabama as its Director of Commerce. Upon the death of Insurance Superintendent Frank Julian on November 30, 1944, Miss Farish assumed the duties of Superintendent of Insurance, making her the first female chief insurance regulator in the nation.

On December 5, 2004, David Parsons, then Deputy Commissioner for Life & Health Insurance, was awarded the Robert Dineen Award by the NAIC. The award is designed to honor a staff member of an insurance department who has made an outstanding contribution to state regulation of insurance. Former Commissioner Parsons, the first Alabamian to receive the award in its 16-year history, was honored in particular for his work with the NAIC on the development of the Interstate Compact.

On December 6, 2005, Walter A. Bell was chosen as President-Elect of the NAIC, and served a one-year term as President beginning January 1, 2007, becoming the only Alabama Commissioner to serve in this position.

On November 30, 2010, Steve Ostlund, actuary for Life & Health Insurance, was awarded the Robert Dineen Award by the NAIC. Ostlund, the second Alabamian to receive the award in its 22-year history, was honored in particular for his work with the NAIC on development of the medical loss ratio requirements to be used in connection with implementation of national health care reform.

On December 2, 2017, Charles Angell, Deputy Commissioner and Chief Actuary, was awarded the Robert Dineen Award by the NAIC. Angell become the third Alabamian to receive the award in its 29-year history, was honored for his advisory role with the NAIC’s Property & Casualty Actuarial Credential/Qualification Study.
Examination Division

The Examination Division assists the Commissioner in the regulation of insurance company financial solvency and market conduct through the activities of surveillance, monitoring, analysis, and examination, all performed in accordance with Alabama law, nationally recognized standards promulgated by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC), and other regulatory and professional accounting agencies. Through these procedures, the Division provides technical assistance and factual information as a basis for determining regulatory action, thus serving as the first line of defense between Alabama’s citizens and potentially troubled insurance companies.

As indicated in the history of the Department of Insurance, regulation originated with a tax, a requirement for foreign insurers to obtain a certificate of authority, and finally a requirement for foreign insurers to file annual financial statements. Prior to 1897, these forms were filed with the State Auditor, which was originally called the State Comptroller. With the creation of the Department of Insurance in 1897, a separate office began to handle the duties of auditing the books and records of insurance companies doing business in this state.

In 1993, the department sought and gained passage of legislation designed to meet the accreditation requirements of the NAIC. On December 2, 1995, the Alabama Department of Insurance first obtained accreditation by the NAIC. A second round of accreditation was approved on December 2, 2000. The department was reaccredited on December 8, 2006, October 3, 2011, and August 25, 2016, and is scheduled for another accreditation review in early 2022.

Today, the Examination Division contains the following functional units:

- The Financial Analysis Unit operates under the direction of an Insurance Examination Supervisor, Sheila Travis, who reports to the Chief Examiner. This unit provides continuous off-site monitoring of Alabama domiciled insurer’s financial condition and compliance with Alabama Law as well as guidelines established by the NAIC. Internal and external changes impacting the industry are also monitored to assess potential risk to Alabama’s domestic industry.

- The Financial Examination Unit operates under the direction of an Insurance Examination Supervisor, Blasé Abreo, who reports to the Chief Examiner. The 1897 act which established the office of Commissioner of Insurance included provisions authorizing the sheriff of each county to investigate the cause of fires when requested by the Insurance Commissioner. In 1909 the first State Fire Marshal act was adopted, placing administration with the Department of Insurance, and included a premium tax of 1/5 of 1% on fire insurers to fund the operation. In 1919, a new State Fire Marshal law was enacted which separated the office from the Department of Insurance. In 1935, the Superintendent of Insurance became the State Fire Marshal Ex-Officio, and the Office of State Fire Marshal was consolidated with the Bureau of Insurance. In 1951, with the reformation of the Department of Insurance, the position of State Fire Marshal was established subject to the State Merit System. In 1975 the State Fire Marshal and his assistants and deputies were granted full powers of peace officers. In 2016, the Insurance Fraud Unit was created as a part of the State Fire Marshal's office. In 2017 the office was renamed the ALDOI Criminal Investigations Division, with an Assistant State Fire Marshal over the Arson/Code Bureau and another over the Insurance Fraud Bureau. As of December 31, 2021, the Division has a staff of forty employees.

From 1909 to 1919, the Alabama State Fire Marshal was also a Deputy Insurance Commissioner, as follows:

1909-1913 ........... Lorrie Rice, of Prattville
1913-1915 ........... T.L. Austin, of Wetumpka

Individuals and business entities selling insurance and certain other products in the State of Alabama are required to be licensed by the Department of Insurance. The Producer Licensing Division is responsible for accomplishing this task by:

- Administering the applicable statutes and regulations governing the initial and continued licensure of all resident and non-resident producers, independent adjusters, service representatives, dental service representatives, legal service representatives, motor club representatives, surplus line brokers, reinsurance intermediaries, title insurance agents, and managing general agents.
- Maintaining files for all individuals and entities licensed through this office so that public documents are accessible upon request.
- Administering statutes and regulations governing the education of licensed individuals.
- Collecting fees from various license applicants for initial and renewal licenses and for company appointments.
- Maintaining education standards for initial licensing and continuing education of insurance representatives to ensure that only qualified individuals are licensed to transact insurance business with citizens of this state.
- Initiating regulatory action for the cancellation or suspension of licensees who fail to comply with the continuing education or license renewal requirements.

Insurance agents were first required to be licensed in Alabama in 1927. By 1957, there were 56,079 insurance agents and 472 non-resident brokers licensed. That year the legislature approved two separate laws requiring a pre-license examination for insurance agents, one law applicable to property and casualty agents, and the other applicable to life and disability insurance agents. In 1963, surplus line brokers were required to be licensed. In 1979, property and casualty insurance agents were required to attend a forty-hour “pre-qualification” course before sitting for the agent examination. A similar requirement was placed on life and disability insurance agents in 1981, at which time partnerships and corporations were permitted to be licensed as life and disability agents.

In 1988, partnerships and corporations were also permitted to be licensed as property and casualty insurance agents. The 1988 act also included a requirement for all agents to annually apply for license, although this requirement was not enforced until adoption of the annual renewal and continuing education regulation in 1994. In 1996, legislation was adopted requiring insurance agents to complete 12 hours of continuing education each year. In 2001, the insurance agent and broker license laws were consolidated to the insurance producer license law, with the one law applicable to both life and disability agents as well as property and casualty agents. Also in 2001, title insurance agents were required to be authorized for each title insurer they represent. In 2006, the insurance producer law was amended to provide for biennial licensing. In 2012, the producer licensing law was amended to meet the uniformity requirements set by the NAIC, to include a fingerprinting requirement for new licensees. Also in 2012, the title insurance law was amended to require full licensing of all title insurance agents, to include pre-license education and examination, fingerprinting and continuing education.

The adoption of the Alabama Insurance Code in 1971 also included provisions for the licensing of independent adjusters, which provided the bare minimum of regulation for these adjusters. In 2011, the NAIC model independent adjuster law was adopted, thus imposing prelicensing education and examination requirements on applicants, as well as continuing education at renewal. The new law also provided for the registration of emergency independent adjusters and the licensing of apprentice independent adjusters.

Since 2003, the administration of the insurance examinations has been handled by the University of Alabama College of Continuing Studies. The examinations are offered at six locations around the state, including the metropolitan areas in and around Birmingham, Huntsville, Mobile, Tuscaloosa, Montgomery, and Gadsden. There is also an option for an online examination. There are currently 13 examinations, as follows:

1. The Life Insurance Producer exam
2. The Health Insurance Producer exam
3. The combined Life & Health Producer exam
4. The Property Insurance Producer exam
5. The Casualty Insurance Producer exam
6. The Combined Property & Casualty Producer exam
7. The Personal Lines Insurance Producer exam
8. The Bail Bond Producer exam

10. The Property & Casualty Adjuster exam, excluding Workers’ Compensation and Crop
11. The Workers’ Compensation Adjuster exam

Rates & Forms Division

The mission of the Rates and Forms Division is to enforce Alabama Insurance statutes, regulations, and bulletins pertaining to insurance companies, producers, adjusters, and other licensed entities. Its aim is to protect consumers, increase market choice and treat all concerned fairly. The Division is responsible for accomplishing these tasks by:

- Reviewing rate filings submitted by insurance companies to determine compliance
- Reviewing form filings submitted by insurance companies to determine compliance
- Assisting consumers with regard to their rating and underwriting complaints
- Responding to and deploying staff members to disaster sites to assist victims
- Participating in consumer outreach programs with staff members speaking to community and consumer groups

Consumer Services Division

The Consumer Services Division is committed to protecting and educating consumers regarding insurance matters. All complaints are investigated to determine if a regulated insurance entity has handled the consumer’s insurance issue consistent with all applicable Alabama insurance laws and regulations. In performing these tasks, the Division does the following:

- Receives, researches, investigates, and resolves individual consumer complaints against insurance companies, agents, and brokers
- Refers completed investigations to the Legal Division
- Provides educational materials and assistance for consumers and senior citizens regarding insurance questions and coverage provisions

- Participates in consumer outreach programs with staff members speaking to community and consumer groups throughout the state
- Investigates unlicensed and unauthorized insurance activities
- Investigates alleged violations and where evidence warrants forwards charges to the Legal Division

The history of the Rates & Forms Division is intertwined with that of the Consumer Services Division. The Bureau of Rates law was enacted in 1945, and is, for the most part, reflected today in Chapter 13 of the current Insurance Code. This authority was limited to approval or disapproval of rates for fire and casualty insurance; thus, the office was once known as the Fire & Casualty Division. The Trade Practices Act was adopted in 1957, thereby providing consumers with certain protections from unfair methods of competition and deceptive acts and practices. The requirement for approval of policy forms was included in the 1971 enactment of the Alabama Insurance Code, which covered the review of all forms, from fire and casualty to life and disability. Eventually the operations were split into two divisions, the Fire & Casualty Division, later the Property & Casualty Division, and the Life & Disability Division. Each division handled their own consumer complaints and investigations, as well as rate and form filings. For many years, an actuarial firm was engaged to review life and disability forms and health rates. In 1988, these divisions were rearranged into an Insurance Division, which was to handle all rates and form filings, and a Consumer Services Division, which would handle all consumer complaints and investigations. In 2001, these divisions were again divided into a Life & Health Division and a Property & Casualty Division, with the tasks divided as before. In 2005, the divisions were again reorganized, this time into the Rates & Forms Division and the Consumer Services Division.
During most of this history, these divisions were under the supervision of a Deputy Insurance Superintendent or Deputy Commissioner. Currently, the supervisors of the Rates & Forms Division and the Consumer Services Division report to the Deputy Commissioner. As of December 31, 2021, the Rates & Forms Division has a staff of eleven employees and the Consumer Services Division has a staff of ten. Here is a partial list of the Deputy Commissioners and other supervisors as derived from available records:

Receivership Division

When the Alabama Insurance Code was adopted in 1971, it included a chapter dealing with the rehabilitation and liquidation of insurers, which is, for the most part, reflected today in Chapter 32 of the current Insurance Code. The commencement of delinquency proceedings was within the sole discretion of the Commissioner of Insurance, who would then be appointed Receiver in any order granting the action. By act adopted in 1975, the Receivership Division was created, to be headed by a chief to be appointed by the Commissioner. The Commissioner still has exclusive authority to commence a delinquency proceeding, but under the new law the Chief of the Receivership Division is to be appointed Receiver. Currently, the Chief of the Receivership Division reports to the General Counsel. As of December 31, 2021, the division has a staff of six employees. Mitigation Resources Division

The Strengthen Alabama Homes Division was first established in 2015 and in 2020 it was incorporated into the newly formed Mitigation Resources Division which is designed to provide resources and expertise to consumers and the insurance industry in the ever-expanding space of disaster preparation, mitigation, and response. The division is organized into four sections:

- The Strengthen Alabama Homes (SAH) Program provides grants to homeowners in the most cost-effective manner for retrofitting homes against wind damage in order to improve community resiliency to severe weather events. The statute creating the SAH Program was adopted in 2011. This law was designed to aid Alabama homeowners to improve the integrity of their homes with updated building modifications, also known as wind retrofitting, that should minimize property loss due to hurricane or other catastrophic windstorm events. The 2011 law works in concert with a law adopted in 2009 requiring insurers to provide a premium discount for property which meets certain fortification standards.

As of December 31, 2021, a total of 3,373 grants had been issued since the beginning of the program. The following is a list of the total dollar amount of grants issued in each of the indicated fiscal years:

- The Private Flood Section was created to promote the formation and growth of a vibrant flood market in Alabama. In 2020, the Department of Insurance contracted with Milliman, Inc., to conduct a survey of insurers, reinsurers, managing general agents, and other industry stakeholders to better understand their concerns and perspectives for writing private flood insurance in this state. Based on the comments received, the Department asked the Legislature to amend the Rating Law to exempt private flood insurance from the rating law for property insurance. The Commissioner also issued a bulletin to call attention to the new law and to clarify certain other requirements. It is hoped these changes will help spark interest in growing a private flood market in this state.

- The Community Resilience Section is tasked with working to assist communities in our state to develop policies and laws and to perform education and outreach to increase awareness to help build stronger communities; providing resources for communities to grow and thrive in a time of uncertainty when faced with natural disasters.

- The Disaster Preparedness and Response Section is responsible for ensuring the insurance industry is responding to disasters in Alabama and that claims are being handled timely. This section also ensures that the Department is prepared and is timely and efficient in its response to the citizens of Alabama and the insurance industry in the event of a natural disaster.

As of December 31, 2021, the Mitigation Resources Division has a staff of six employees and is managed by a director who reports to the General Counsel. Brian Powell has served as the only Director of the Strengthen Alabama Homes Program and the Mitigation Resources Division.
